week. At the Stock Exchange call loans ruled at from 1 to 1½ per cent, and the last named was the highest rate. Renewals of long standing loans, nominally on call, were made in some cases at 2 per cent. Rates for time money were equally easy, but the demand was extremely light, and only a small business was done. Rates ranged from 3 per cent for short periods to 4 per cent for four and six months. It is not impossible that these figures would have been shaded to borrowers of high standing but, unhappily, this class was not in the market. There was also good inquiry for commercial periods to 4 per cent for four and six months. It is not impossible that these figures would have been shaded to borrowers of high standing, but, unhappily, this class was not in the market. There was also good inquiry for commercial paper, both from out-of-town institutions and from city banks. Offerings were unimportant, and in consequence rates were lower and, in a sense, almost nominal. The future of the money market it is impossible to discern. The pilling up of idle funds in the city banks has been wholly beyond precedent. In three months the banks, from a defeit, have accumulated the extraordinary surplus of $65.470,475. The movement evidently is not ended, and the inflow of currency from all points is extremely heavy. It would not be amazing if, before the end of the year, the banks should hold a surplus reserve of nearly $109,000,000. Frequent comparisons with the condition of the banks after the panic of 1884 have been made, but it has been always overlooked that the amount of currency in circulation is very much larger than it was at that time. In the last three years, for instance, there has been issued from the Treasury over $153,000,000 of legal-tender notes, issued under the Sherman Silver law. This explains in part why the banks now hold over $15,500,000 less gold than they did at that time and nearly twice as much of legal-tender notes. The percentage of reserve at the present time is now 39, against 41.9 on August 1, 1885, but the character of the reserve is probably somewhat less substantial.

In the European markets the situation was not greatly changed. In London the reported irregularities in the management of the Bank of England exerted little influence on any of the markets. The bank did not change its official rate at the weekly meeting on Thursdey, but in the outside market the rate for discounts advanced from 2½ on Wednesday to 2½ per cent, at which it closed yesterday, it must will apparently an upward tendency. At Paris the street rate for discount remained throughout the week uncha

RAILROAD EARNINGS.

The Tribune has printed the gross earnings of fourteen railroad companies or systems for of fourteen railroad companies or systems for the second week in November. Of the num-ber, six companies return gains of $73,545, or 8.2 per cent, and eight companies losses of $180,857, or 8.3 per cent. The whole number shows a decrease of $107,306, or 3.5 per cent. It has printed also the gross earnings of fifty-seven companies for the first week in Novem-ber. The whole number shows a decrease of

THE WEEK IN WALL STREET. Speculation in stocks last week was narrow and almost strictly professional. The volume of business was a trifle larger than it was in no significance, and foreshadowed no immediate change in the speculative situation. Transactions in stocks amounted to 1,149,382, against 1,656,591 in the preceding week, and against 1,619,423 shares in the corresponding week a year ago. As has happened in several weeks, the business was not well distributed, and in American Sugar Refining alone the transactions were nearly one-quarter of the total, while five stocks, the only ones in which transactions exceeded $100,000, furnished nearly three-quarters of the total business. The movement of prices naturally was extremely irregular. It seemed to be controlled largely by the erratic nificance, and foreshadowed no immediate cuarriers of the total business. The movement of prices naturally was extremely irregular. It seemed to be controlled largely by the erratic fluctuations in Sugar Refining, which closed with a loss of 4½ per cent. St. Paul, which was second, wavered within narrow limits, and closed only a fraction lower, and Chicago, Eurington and Quincy, which was third, lost only 2 per cent. Toward the end of the week Philadelphia and Reading was affected adversely by the well authenticated report that the expert accountant employed by the bondholders' committee had expressed the opinion, after a careful examination, that the company needed at least $15,000,000 new capital. There would seem to be only one way in which this fresh capital can be raised, and that is by an assessment on the stock and innor securities. That there was no other plain alternative was indicated by the activity and weakness which followed the report in both the stock and innor negatization has been formulated, but it is known to be the personal opinion of prominent members of the committee that no reconstruction is possible without imposing a heavy assessment on the present stock. In spite of the sharp decline on Friday, Reading lost on the week only 1½ per cent.

Among the activity and weakness which followed the corrected a final gain was Chicago Gas, which the dealings were not large, Manhattan Railway was conspicuous by its weakness, and its final loss, in spite of a handsome raily, was 5 per cent. A still larger loss was sustained by American Tobacco, which fell 8 per cent in consequence of a legal quarrel.

There was apparently a total absence of outside interest in the speculation. It must be acknowledged, however, that while investment of the interest in the speculation. It must be acknowledged, however, that while investment of the sharp to the sharp to the same time of the sharp to the sha

In general the market displayed admirable resistance to vigorous efforts in behalf of lower prices. The accumulation of money at this centre has become so excessive that many owners of it will desire to secure larger remuneration than they now receive. The scarcity of bonds, even below the highest grade, proves that soon attention will be turned to speculation.
